

VACANCY TITLE: Designing Interpretation Materials – English Heritage / Heritage Schools

ADMINISTRATIVE CONTACT: Lisa.Friedberg@uwe.ac.uk

EMPLOYMENT TYPE: Volunteer

VACANCY COMMENCEMENT DATE: Immediately

NUMBER OF POSITIONS AVAILABLE: 1-2

JOB LOCATION: UWE & Home-based / site visits to Horfield Common as necessary

DESCRIPTIVE DETAILS:

Work with English Heritage's Heritage Schools project co-ordinator to transform new content about the Horfield Common area of Bristol (created between January - March 2015 as part of an English Heritage local history project) into engaging interpretation materials (e.g a pamphlet including info about the local area) highlighting heritage information and landmarks.

The aim of Heritage Schools is to encourage young people to feel a sense of pride about the local area in which they live. Your work will contribute to the project - ensuring that the outcomes have high production values and a contemporary sense, whilst also acknowledging - and/or 'nodding to' - the heritage sector and its established communications/visual identity and conventions.

You will need design/layout skills and familiarity with Adobe Photoshop and InDesign. An interest in history is a plus. The materials need to appeal to audiences from a wide range of ages, and backgrounds and be able to be used by non-specialists.

This is great opportunity for graphics, illustration and arts students to work on a professional style live brief and is an excellent portfolio builder.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: Please send your CV and an email indicating your interest, course, and year of study, to Lisa Friedberg, Bristol Parkhive Project Coordinator, at Lisa.Friedberg@uwe.ac.uk. Please also include a link to an online portfolio or examples of your work if you have them.
